Fulbright Gets to Attend CIA's Senate Briefing

With Scnate Foreign Relations this can be given and taken Committee members attending away. It would be more desiration the first time, the Senate's ble if formal action were taken to be a senated by the first time. CIA watchdog committee has by the Senate to establish the received a top-secret intelligence briefing on world affairs Committee to information about operations of the CIA."

CI. Crector Richard Helm gave the briefing, under tight security, in the Senate Armed Scrvices Committee hearing room yesterday. The meeting lasted from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Afterward, Sen. Richard B.
Russell, D-Ga., who heads the CIA panel, said the briefings covered "the waterfront." But he added that it was all highly classified and nothing could be

In what may be the end of a long-s tan din g controversy, Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and two other members of the Foreign Relations Com-mittee attended the meeting at Russell's invitation.

Information Sought

Members of the Foreign Relations Committee have been contend they should have it mittee: because the CIA often involves itself in foreign policy matters.

After the meeting, Fulbright said it was "too soon to say" whether the arrangement would satisfy his committee.

Others from the Foreign Relations Committee who were invited and attended the briefing were Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, the ranking Republican member, and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield. of Montana, who is third in scniority on the Democratic

Not included was Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., who sponsored a resolution last year that would have set up a nine-memintelligence committee, made up of three representa-tives each from the Appropriations, Armed Services and . Foreign relations committees. As for yesterday's meeting, Mc-Oarthy said:

"This is substance of what we are asking for. There remains, however, a question of whether

May Be Permanent

Russell was asked if participation by members of the Foreign Relations group would be permanent and replied that it would be "as far as I can see at the present time."

Mansfield said he was invited bccause of his leadership posi-tion and added that he understood Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois also would be asked to attend.

Russell, however, said the three senators were invited because they were on the Foreign Relations Committee. Since Dirksen is not a member of that committee, the Georgia senator said he had not been asked to attend.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.Dak. Relations Committee have been was added to the watchdog demanding access to information on CIA operations. They ing the appropriations subcom-
